

Interspecies Telepathic Communicator

Lauren Bode

Lauren Bode has always had a special affinity with animals. She grew up on a backcountry cattle ranch in South America with horses, the usual domestic pets and more exotic animals as her daily companions. Later as an international entrepreneur she travelled through five continents and for some years owned and operated her own zoo in Europe. Lauren has written humorous stories of how her children grew up in a zoo with wild animals sharing their home.

Lauren has maintained her telepathic communication abilities working with all types of animals. It is often amazing to hear the specific information that they tell her: health problems, behavioural problems, training problems, information on food and exercise preferences, opinions on family matters and gossip gathered from the people and other animals around them.

Lauren's travels throughout Canada, the United States and beyond have resulted in great experiences with dogs, cats and horses; resulting in some incredible transformations in relationships between the animals and their owners. This has been a source of great satisfaction to Lauren.
